LABOR AT A PREMIUM NOW IN ENTIRE MONONGAHELA VALLEY

Labor Rivalry Has Developed in Place of Usually Expected Trade Rivalry

MEN NEEDED AT MONONGAHELA

From 1,000 to 1,500 Miners and Other Workmen Could Now be Put To Work—Frick Coal Fields Claim Some from the Crescent Mine.

Never was labor scarcer or at a greater premium in the Monongahela valley than it is now. The aspect of the general superintendent of a large steel concern operating up the valley waiting on trains on which foreigners just landed were coming in, to almost beg of them to go to work, furnishes an example of the need. Mines and industries are all suffering and from a trade rivalry a labor rivalry has developed. Where previously factory superintendents declined to give to the public information of their output through fear competitors would steal trade, they now are sphinxlike through fear competitors will steal their men.

In the Monongahela coal district, virtually the first bituminous district, from 1,000 to 1,500 could be used if they were available. Mines in need are the Mongah, Gallatin, Manown, Dunkirk, Hazelkirk, Acme and the Ellsworth workings, while to start the Black Diamond mine shortly from 500 to 600 miners will be needed. At Marianna there is a standing advertisement out for 500 miners.

At Donora new men are being put to work as they can be secured at the subsidiary plants of the United States Steel Corporation. At Monessen there is an actual need at the plant of the Pittsburgh Steel company and other companies operating there. The same is true in Charleroi at the various local glass factories.

In the twenty-first bituminous district, which includes the largest of the Vesta Coal company's mines and some of the largest of the Pittsburgh

CALLAGHAN ON STUMP AGAIN

Donora Paper Says He is Sure of Ohio and Illinois Delegation

MAKES SPEECH AT DONORA

According to the Donora American, Edward Callahan of Charleroi, once a member of the legislature and four years ago a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency of the United States is taking the stump in his own behalf again and will seek to oust Wilson from the White House. In an unassuming manner Mr. Callahan describes himself as the "back-bone of the Democratic party." On Monday afternoon he arrived in Donora after completing a speaking tour of eastern Pennsylvania cities. On that evening he made a speech at the Ironton corner in which he said:

"What is President Wilson today? Nothing more than the tool of the Money Power. When the most peaceful nation on earth wanted to negotiate the $100,000,000 loan he put his foot flat down on it and said: 'No we will not stand for it.' When the Allies wished to make a billion dollar loan, he not only allowed it, but he pledged the good will of the United States to protect them. In his speech before the Manhattan Club he adopted the platform given out as Preparedness and dumped it on the Democratic Party."

Mr. Callahan the Donora publication maintains is sure of the Ohio and Illinois delegations in the next Democratic nominating convention. He says if the Pennsylvania delegation goes back on him they will go back on the man who has made the Democratic party what it is today. No less than two different newspapers have spoken of Mr. Callahan as being a man without a blemish.

BUCKET SHOP RAIDS ARE MADE ON FRIDAY

County Seat Broker Along With Numerous Others in All Parts of the Keystone State is Placed Under Arrest

Acting upon orders issued by Deputy Attorney General Horace W. Danner, the Commonwealth in conjunction with federal authorities, 21 members of the state constabulary raided alleged "bucket shops" in Pittsburgh Friday.

The raids are part of a statewide crusade following lines suggested by Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh early last year and took place simultaneously in a number of other cities, about 40 in all.

The state and federal authorities have been working several months upon details.

Major John C. Groom, superintendent of the state police was in general charge of the roopers' activities. Since the passage of the act of 1917 prohibiting bucket shops in this state, all such shops have affiliated either directly or as correspondents with the Consolidated Stock and Produce exchange in Pittsburgh for the purpose of giving a semblance of regularity and legality to their operation according to a statement issued at Harrisburg by the attorney general. This exchange was originally organized in 1901 for legitimate purposes, but shortly after the passage of the act its control was taken over for the purposes it has since been used to.

TOWBOAT J. O. WATSON WRECKED WHEN UPSET BY OHIO STORM

Present Winter Troublesome Period to Manufacturers in This Valley

Vessel Formerly Employed in Monongahela River Service Being Named For Present County Commissioner.

The towboat, J. O. Watson of the West Virginia-Pittsburg Coal company was badly damaged and four members of the crew had a narrow escape from drowning when the boat was badly wrecked by a gale in the Ohio river near Wheeling Friday.

The boat was left lying bottom up in about 30 feet of water by the gale and storm. The J. O. Watson was formerly a North Charleroi vessel named after the present county commissioner. It formerly plied the Monongahela river.

The J. O. Watson was used to haul coal from Mine No. 3 of the company near Wellsburg to Pittsburg. It was a 32-ton craft. The loss will approximate $30,000.

COL. CRAGO MAY QUIT THE TENTH

Feels He Should Not, as Member of N. G. P. Work For Bill Benefiting Him

MEMBER OF NATIONAL HOUSE

Word comes from Washington, D. C. that Lieut Col. Thos. S. Crago of the Tenth Infantry, N. G. P. intends to soon resign his commission in the Tenth. He has sent a letter of resignation to Governor Brumbaugh, it is said, but it has been held up pending developments along the border and in Mexico.

The reason for the intended resignation of Lieut. Col. Crago it is said, is because he does not want to be working and voting for the military reorganization bill when he is an officer who would directly profit by the passage of such a bill which would raise his pay as an officer of the National Guard.

Colonel Crago served as captain of Company E of Waynesburg in the Philippines and on the return of the Tenth he became major and then lieutenant colonel. He is a member of the Military Affairs Committee of the National house and is active in behalf of the new militia bill.

Macbeth-Evans Plant and Steel Mills at Donora Affected—General Shortage in Supply of Gas the Direct Cause—No Letup in the Demand.

Today there is another general shortage of gas reported in manufacturing plants of the Monongahela valley, including the Macbeth-Evans Glass plant here and several departments of the Donora steel plants. Elsewhere in Western Pennsylvania where gas in large quantities are used in manufacturing similar conditions prevail. That the reason instead of being a multitude of things, is a general gas shortage is coming to be the opinion of leading manufacturers. The Philadelphia company, through subsidiary concerns furnished most of the valley manufactories with gas.

The order was received early this morning compelling a suspension of one-half of the Macbeth-Evans plant and all of several Donora steel works departments. Last Thursday a similar condition prevented entire operation. Since the first of February there have been eight partial suspensions lasting from a half a day to practically a day and a half.

The gas concerns furnishing gas to industries blame the manufacturers for permitting a waste of gas, charging that they are thinking only of getting out their orders. Probably the tremendous demand at the mills, which are all operating when possible to their fullest capacity, has

FUEL AND HEAT.

And Why a Blackened Stove Will Give the Best Results.

The typical household operates on the hit or miss rule of thumb. Effectiveness is secured either through happen chance or the coincidence of that rule with some sound principle.

Why is the stove in the kitchen kept black? The United States Bureau of Standards asserts that not one woman in ten knows. It says that the reason is that a blackened stove is the hottest of stoves. A nickel plated stove loses half of its capacity for heatness.

Do you want your hot water pipes to transfer heat without loss? "Black them bright and shining," says the leader. A bright pipe loses less heat than one insulated in thin asbestos pants and pots kept bright stay longer than those not so. An iron bottle is black on the bottom to take heat easily and bright on the sides to keep heat long.

Fuels are too frequently used without understanding of their special fitness for specific purposes. A common task has an hour of cooking to proper enthusiasm for frying eggs. Many furnaces work better on small than on large coal, which also is more expensive. The heating surfaces and the flues of furnaces should be kept clean. Soot insulates the source of warmth, as if an asbestos mat were put between the stove and the pot of coffee.

PORTUGAL'S HOMER.

Camoens, Who Wrote "The Lusiad," Died in Abject Poverty.

"The Lusiad" is one of the noblest records ever written of national glory and success.

Camoens, its gifted author, determined to do for Portugal what Homer had done for Greece. The great poet was written in the sixteenth century, which has been called the heroic age of Portugal, and its main feature is the rounding of the Cape of Good Hope by Vasco da Gama, while a most interesting episode is the crowning after death of Inez de Castro as queen of Portugal.

"The Lusiad" took its name from Lusius, who was said to have founded Lisbon. Its author was born about 1524, and his career, which began brilliantly, was blighted by the death of a broken heart of the lady of his love, for whose sake he was banished from the land.

Camoens wrote "The Lusiad" in his banishment and was recalled in 1571, losing on the way all his property except his poem. Pensioned at first by the king, this great epic poet of Portugal died in great poverty and misery in 1570, when his patron was also dead.

Knowledge and Culture.

A great memory does not make a philosopher any more than a dictionary can be called a grammar. There are men who embrace in their minds a vast multitude of ideas, but with little sensibility about their real relations toward each other. These may be antiquarians, naturalists, naturalists; they may be learned in the law; they may be versed in statistics; they are most useful in their own place. I should shrink from speaking disrespectfully of them. Still, there is nothing in such attainments to guarantee the absence of narrowness of mind. If they are nothing more than well read men or men of information they have not what specially deserves the name of culture of mind or fulfills the type of liberal education.—Newman.

England's First Almanac.

The first almanac printed in England was the "Kalendar of Shephardes," which appeared in 1497. Just forty years after Gutenberg printed his first almanac at Mainz. From that time onward almanacs were numerous, "omenes and prognostications" being added in most cases to the calendar information.

One of the earliest specimens preserved enjoys the title of "The Prognostication of Master John Tyball, of the influence of the moon, of peas and ware and of syrenes of the yere with the constellacions that be under the planets and the revolutions of kynges and princes."—London Mirror.

Melba's Name.

Melba's name was Nellie Mitchell until her marriage, when it became Mrs. C. N. F. Armstrong. At the time of her debut into opera she decided to adopt a stage name, and her intense loyalty to the land of birth moved her to combine the first four letters of Melbourne, her native town, and the last letter of Victoria, the reigning queen of that time, together making Melba.—New York Telegraph.

The Diamond.

While the diamond is the hardest substance known, it is also brittle and may be fractured by a blow. But if it is placed between two hard steel faces in a hydraulic press and a slowly accelerating pressure applied the hard steel will become indented.

DUMBEST OF ALL ANIMALS.

This Creature Sits on Its Mouth During Its Entire Lifetime.

What would you think of an animal who sat on his mouth? You would guess he didn't know very much wouldn't you? Neither does he. You could call him the dumbest of dumb animals. In fact, he's so very dumb that most people don't know he's an animal at all. He's the sponge.

No, not the sponge you are acquainted with, not the bathroom kind. That's not his skeleton. The sponge we're talking about is the one that lives in the bottom of the sea, where he sits all day on his mouth.

In the evening he's an egg, which splits up in many cells and then swims up in the air for day or two. Then there comes dead in one side—that's his mouth. Soon the sponge stops swimming and sticks to the bottom mouth downward. There he eats and eats until sometimes he gets to be ten feet tall and as thick as he is tall.

He's covered with a jelly-like skin. When sponge fishermen haul him in, if they go out in boats and pull up sponges from the bottom of the sea with long handled forks. Then they lay them on the shore to dry. After days the jelly-like flesh drops off and the fishermen tramp the sponges with their feet. Then they are considered clean enough to sell. We really get the bones of the sponge, that's all—Examiner.

BURIES ITS OWN SEED.

How the Peanut Plant Protects Its Fruit From Destruction.

Heres's plant mother that buries her children to protect them. While the children of other plants are being kidnapped by animals and birds, these youngsters are carefully hidden away beneath the ground so they can grow in safety. But man won't permit the mother to keep her children long. He digs them up and eats them. The plant is the peanut.

Its leaves look like a four-leaved clover. Its blossoms are a dainty yellow, shaped like those of the sweet pea. When they wither and fall off the mother plant begins to worry about her seed children, for if the birds and animals kidnap them before they ripen they won't have a chance to grow and produce more plants next year.

So she bends her stalks downward, and each head where the flowers have fallen off she pokes into the ground. There the little seeds develop inside of wrinkly, paper-like pods. Sometimes the little tunneling moles dig them and eat them, or maybe hogs will come and root them out. Usually, however, they're safe from all marauders.

America gave the world the peanut. It was found first in Brazil. Since its commercial value was discovered it has been planted all over the world. Since 1866 it has been a staple product of southern United States.—Philadelphia North American.

Tavern Heroes.

The Marquis of Granby bears a title that swings from many a tavern signboard all England over. London alone has some half a dozen. Yet this popular soldier, who commanded England's troops in Germany during the Seven Years' war, was the target of some of "Junius'" most bitter invective. The secret of his popularity lay in the fact that Granby was always a soldier's general who not only led them well in the fight, but also cared for their comfort in the camp. The first inn to bear the marquis' head as a sign is said to have been opened by one of his own guardsmen at Hornsby. Apart from Wellington and Nelson, the marquis comes easily first among England's tavern heroes.—London Chronicle.

District of Maine.

Long before the Revolutionary war the title to what is now the state of Maine was in dispute between England and France. In 1763 France relinquished her claim to England, and in 1783, at the close of the Revolution, the British claims were ceded to the United States. From 1783 till 1820, when Maine was admitted to the Union as a separate state, it formed a part of Massachusetts and was called a province or district. There were no Maine soldiers in the Revolutionary war; they were Massachusetts soldiers from the district of Maine.—Philadelphia Press.

Uncanny.

The Colonel—So the bank refused to cash that check I gave you. Rastus—Rastus—Yessah. Dat cashier man dun positive do most uncanny mind Ah ebah saw sah. The Colonel—Uncanny? Rastus—Yessah. Jes' as soon as Ah dum tell him whose check Ah bad he said it was no good ebah be'fo' he dum look at it, sah.—Punch.

Keep on Right Side.

"You know I hear better with my right ear than with my left," said the judge.

"Perhaps that's why so many people like to keep on the right side of you," said the court attendant.—Tonkers Statesman.

Confidences in the Family.

Mother—I have just heard something that you ought to know. Your father tells me that your husband is hopelessly involved. Married Daughter—Isn't that lovely! Now, maybe he'll make over all his property to me.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Unkind Wish.

Hubby (at breakfast)—I've got a bad head this morning. Wife—I'm sorry, dear. I do hope you'll be able to shake it off.—Pall Mall Gazette.

CHINESE PUNISHMENTS.

Flogging Is Common, and Rank Does Not Protect an Offender.

Chinese lawbreakers are not troubled with any sentimental scruples on the subject of flogging. Even a criminal condemned to death is given a preliminary flogging instead of a trial with us. He is flogged with bamboo rods and canes, or until the floor of doom. At other courts of Chinese justice, so far as we know, concerned, is its strict impartiality.

Chinese offenders are flogged as severely as criminals of the lower orders. The flog may be a silken rod that has been sooted with the leather thong of the whips wielded by stern Chinese officials, whose duty it has been to lay on the flesh heavily, regardless of the ranks of the victim, on pain of being flogged themselves.

The Chinese legal code prescribes the flog for many offenses so trivial that in Europe they would be quite outside the scope of the law. Not all of the exact penalties are entered in the code, but we may quote two of them as quaint examples. Fifty lashes were ordered to be given to any merchant or tradesman offering for sale goods not of the quality they are represented to be, while self glorification is discouraged by a law that any military man who raises a monument to himself for deeds of heroism which he has never performed is to receive 100 lashes.—Penny's Weekly.

HANGING PICTURES.

This is a Task That Should Produce Artistic Results.

In hanging over one's pictures eliminate all but the oldest and best beloved and try to group together the pictures whose subjects are somewhat related or which have a similarity in frames. Indeed, even when subjects are closely related it is not possible always to hang pictures together owing to a too great difference in the kind of frames. As a rule, any room looks better, especially small rooms, where only one color frame is used on all pictures, but if this is not possible then the next best thing is to keep all of the pictures in gilt frames in one part of the room, all of the dark frame pictures on another wall, etc.

Also one can get the best results by separating water colors and prints, and etchings or engravings should, of course, always be hung apart from other pictures. Another point frequently overlooked is the wisdom of putting the darker pictures on the wall that receives the best light from windows and contrariwise the gilt framed pictures of lighter subjects where they may serve to brighten a dark part of the room.

Finally do not crowd the walls. Hang pictures well in line with the eyes of a person of average height and, of course, choose plain walls, tinted or papered, for backgrounds.—Albany Argus.

Blowing Flowers.

When amateurs speak of flowers "blowing" they are not using a mere vulgarism. They are speaking real English. In the early tongue the verb "blowau" was used to indicate the opening of flowers. Instead of "blow" being a corruption of "bloom" it is the other way about. "Blossom" comes from the same root.

We do not grow the costard apple nowadays, but our forefathers set great store by the sort and bought it especially in the streets from the "mowers."

From costard manger to costermonger is a short step. Hawthorn, too, has its interest. The old form of haw was hag, which means hedge. Hawthorn is therefore simply hedge thorn.—London Graphic.

The Age of Quickness.

The modern wife placed two plates with knives, forks, spoons and tumblers on the dining room table and took two paper napkins from a drawer laying one beside each plate.

Then she lighted the gas stove, opened a can of soup and placed it in a skillet to heat. Next she opened two cans of vegetables and a can of salmon and heated these. She cut six slices of baker's bread and quartered a baker's pie, placing everything on the table, together with butter, salt, pepper and a pitcher of cold water.

"John," she said briskly, "your dinner's ready."—Judge.

Wanted to Be Joined Right.

They were going out to dinner, and he had gone into the house from his limousine to get her.

"All ready?" he asked, at the foot of the stairs.

"Almost," came the response from above.

"I've asked a friend to join us. Is it all right?"

"Yes, if it's the minister."—Tonkers Statesman.

Charity.

She—I'm glad we went. It was an excellent performance—and for such a charitable purpose! Her Husband Yes, indeed! We all feel a thrill of satisfaction when we do something for charity and get the worth of our money at the same time.

Sight Unseen.

Head of Firm—How long do you want to be away on your wedding trip?

Hawkins (timidly)—Well, sir—what would you say?

"How do I know? I haven't seen the bride."

Concerning the condition of affairs

a newspaper man approached a factory superintendent of a large plant in the valley asking for an industrial story. The factory man grinned. "Humph, tell you something? Not on your life," he said. "There's a man up in Butler county who would be tickled to pieces to steal some of my men and publicity would open up an opportunity. I'm sorry, but I can tell you little."

HIGH SCHOOL CAPTURES THE WASHINGTON GAME

Charleroi Team Too Much for Visitors on Local Floor, Winning Methodical Contest by Score of 29 To 18.

Charleroi high school won a despite sort of basketball game from the Washington high school five on the Charleroi floor Friday evening by the score of 29 to 18. Both teams were off color in their general round playing, except in the last part of the affair when Charleroi high turned up into regular form.

Washington high went away blaming the defeat upon Lynn, one of the star forwards who wasn't in the game at all, and Brown, who hasn't been in the game since the first of the season.

Gracey, in the role of captain and a forward for Washington got away with every Washington score.

Referee Pete Mautne conducted a better game than it looked since it took altogether too frequent interruptions to keep the spirit moving.

One of the brightest things of the entire evening was the cheering of the high school squad under Cheerleader Ellsworth Hickey.

Washington scored the first point in the game, but Charleroi took the lead early. Then Washington closed in inch by inch until the score at the end of the first half was 11 to 11.

Up until this time there was nothing out of the ordinary in the class of basketball played.

At the first of the second half Charleroi seemed to acquire a new fighting spirit and injected a lot of vim into the play. Jim Ryland was the stellar performer and to the casual onlooker appeared to have the ball about twice to everybody else's once.

In this half he tallied three field goals. Fiedler likewise played a star game and the speed of Lowstuter saved the day on two or three occasions. Stahlman and Miksch displayed regular all round good form at guard.

Washington plugged away hard but it was apparent there was something lacking somewhere, else these lads have no business monkeying with a claim for the county high school championship.

The struggle assumed a championship hue, since Washington and Charleroi are the leading contenders for the title. Another game will follow later in the season after Charleroi plays Canonsburg. Lineup: Charleroi High—29 Washington—18 Lowstuter .....F..... Gracey

Fiedler .....F..... Bardhouse Ryland .....C..... Baumberger Miksch .....G..... Reddinger Stahlman .....G..... Garbisch

Field goals—Lowstuter 2, Fiedler 3. Ryland 4, Gracey 4. Fouls—Fiedler 11 of 19, Gracey 10 of 22. Referee—Pete Manthe of State College.

LABOR AT A PREMIUM

Coal company the labor situation are secure. Additional workmen are being hired at Vesta No. 4 mine at California, the largest in the world. Miners of the Crescent mine of the Pittsburg Coal company at California are in strike over a technical question.

Approximately 500 foreign miners employed there have settled in part the labor question existing in the Fox's coal fields of Fayette county by walking there voluntarily and going to work.

When the weather opens up and the government arranges for a resumption of Lock building at Lock No. 4 it will face the problem of hiring 150 men, many of them expert construction workers. The government was forced by reason of high water and floods to stop work the forepart of the winter and workmen employed then to the number of nearly 200 have secured work elsewhere and will have to be available.

WAY TO GAIN FLESH

Conductor Tells How He Gained Flesh And Strength.

So many cases like the following are continually coming to our attention we want everyone in Charleroi to know that our offer still holds good to return money in every case where Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, fails to create strength and build up weak, rundown, nervous overworked men and women.

"I am a conductor on the Scranton Ry., and became run-down and tired out, lost my appetite, flesh and strength, so I had to lose a good deal of time from my work. A friend told me to try Vinol. I did so, and rapidly regained health and strength and yesterday I was weighed and it showed I had gained 26 pounds since taking Vinol. I cannot say enough in praise of Vinol for what it has done for me." G. B. Sorber 1513 Vine St., Scranton, Pa.

About every other day we are publishing letters like this in Charleroi newspapers about Vinol. They are guaranteed to be truthful and genuine and show the good Vinol is doing all over the country. Pipers Drug Store.

Why not give your lad the same training?

"When I was a growing lad, and came upon many words in my reading that I did not understand, my mother, instead of giving me the definition when I applied to her, uniformly sent me to the dictionary to learn it, and in this way I gradually learned many things besides the meaning of the individual word in question, among other things, how to use a dictionary, and the great pleasure and advantage there might be in the use of the dictionary. Afterwards, when I went to the village school, my chief diversion, after lessons were learned, and before they were recited, was in turning over the pages of the 'Unabridged-Dictionary'—the NEW INTERNATIONAL—gives me a pleasure of the same sort. So far as my knowledge extends, it is at present the best of the one-volume dictionaries, and quite sufficient for all ordinary uses. Even those who possess the splendid dictionaries in several volumes will yet find it a great convenience to have this, which is so compact, so full, and so trustworthy as to leave, in most cases, little to be desired." Mystery of Petroleum.

Roumania holds the honor for earliest production of crude petroleum, having put it on the market in 1857. Two years later the United States produced its first petroleum, 2,000 gallons. Italy was a producer the following year, and Canada, within 12 months, entered the field. Russia quickly followed, and for years these countries were the sole producers. Russia is now second only to this country.

Cries Not Caused by Pain.

A well-known merchant of New York has a $5 gold piece that he swallowed as a child of five immediately after its presentation to him. Doctors were summoned by two and three and stomach pumps brought in a hurry. While waiting the little chap cried and cried, refusing to be soothed. His mother, bugging and moaning over her boy, supposed the cries meant pain. Just before the doctors came, however, a sharp inquiry by the donor of the gold piece brought out the sobbing statement by the little chap that he wasn't in pain, but he wanted his gold piece back. Immediately another piece was placed in his hand and almost immediately his cries ceased.
